

04 January 2012 - The Department of Foreign Affairs announced today the lifting of the non-essential travel advisory to Bangkok, Thailand. Filipino nationals may now undertake travels to Bangkok.

According to the Flood Relief Operations Center (FROC), the floods have now mostly receded and the government started to downsize the FROC on December 08.

Central Bangkok remains dry and all popular tourist attractions and areas are mainly unaffected by the flood. END