

25 July 2012 - Filipinos who wish to work as caregivers in Israel are now required to have a passport with a minimum validity of three (3) years.

Prospective applicants whose passports' are valid for less than three (3) years are advised to renew their passports before filing a working visa application.

The Israeli Embassy in Manila issues one month working visa for approved workers. Renewal of the worker's visa will depend on the employment contract signed by the worker and the employer. END